If you enjoy viewing lavish and impeccably designed New York City apartments [<https://www.timeout.com/newyork/things-to-do/nyc-apartments-packed-with-owners-awesome-collections>] , you're in for a treat. Every year, Kips Bay Boys & Girls Club partners with the most buzzed about interior designers and asks them to transform a luxury Manhattan home into an amazing exhibition.

The event is called Kips Bay Decorator Show [<http://www.kipsbaydecoratorshowhouse.org/>] , and is essentially a property peep show. Guests are welcome to take a tour of the house located at 110 E 76th St, which includes elegant living areas, multiple bedrooms, a kitchen, bathrooms, a far-out staircase and more. Certain rooms will act as the locations for in-house events like [<https://beat.10ztalk.com/category/social/>] food tastings and cooking demonstrations as well as book signings by celebrity chefs Lidia Bastianich, Seth Rappaport and David Burke.

Admission to the exhibition and the events is $40. Proceeds for the showcase go toward creating after school and enrichment programs for New York City children. Check out some of our favorite rooms as well as the programming for this year's show.
